Evert B. Dyckman,

Representative from Kalamazoo county in 1847, was born at Greenbush, N.y. September 25, 1800. He had a limited education. He became a resident of Onondaga county, N.Y., assisted in the construction of the Oswego canal, established a boat yard, and carried on an extensive coopering business. He purchased one thousand acres of land and settled at Paw Paw, Mich., in 1838, and built the Dyckman House and a grist-mill and store. He removed to Schoolcraft in 1842. In 1853 he purchased the present site of South Haven, and built a pier, saw-mill, store, and several houses. He was engaged in important enterprises at Schoolcraft, and was also engaged in banking.

As early as 1832, Col. Lyman I. Daniels married, at Detroit, a Miss Amelia La Grave, a lady of French descent, a very intelligent and accomplished woman. They continued to reside at Schoolcraft till her husband's death, in 1837, and afterwards she married Evert B. Dyckman, with whom she lived till her death some years after. She was a very graceful, pleasing woman.

?Amelia La Grave--first wife of Evert- no dates on tombstone. maybe mother of twins in 1850 census?
